Outline

Utagawa Hiroshige, widely known as a Meisho-eshi, spent most of his lifetime depicting his hometown, Edo. This exhibition will introduce one of Hiroshige's masterpieces created in his later years, "One Hundred Famous Views of Edo". All 120 pieces will be displayed in three separate periods with each period displaying approximately 40 of his works. The pieces will be separated by its depicted area, and some of the pieces will also have side-to-side comparisons with "Picture of Souvenirs from Edo", which is known to be the original designs for "One Hundred Famous Views of Edo" and Edo Meisho-e which Hiroshige depicted in his earlier years. Visit all three periods and enjoy the depths of Hiroshige's "One Hundred Famous Views of Edo".

One Hundred Famous Views of Edo ~Hiroshige's Last Sights of Edo~

“One Hundred Famous Views of Edo”

“One Hundred Famous Views of Edo” by the Master Landscape Artist Utagawa Hiroshige was master work made in the artist’s last years and is noted for the frequent use of extremely enlarged foreground objects to create depth. Published in succession from 1856, 100 pieces were planned just as the title suggests. But it proved so popular that all 100 were made within a year of it first being released so more were published afterwards. There are 118 pieces in existence which bears Hiroshige’s name and is the largest number of works made by a single artist in a Ukiyo-e series. In total there are 120 works including the piece “Paulownia Trees at Akasaka in the Evening Rain” by Utagawa Hiroshige II and the table of contents designed by Baisotei Gengyo.
